FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Memorial Day is a time to honor those Americans who have made the “ultimate sacrifice” for the United States of America. These heroes lost their lives to protect and preserve this country’s freedom. It is also a time to recognize and commemorate the efforts of all military personnel – those currently serving as well as those who have served in the past. There is one more very deserving group of people that should be rewarded for their “dedication to the cause” and that is the families left behind when a soldier is deployed to active duty. These people – spouses, children, parents, siblings, and significant others are unsung heroes themselves. They endure the pain of separation and fear of loss for the sake of their fellow citizens. They accept the role of supporting cast putting on a brave demeanor while tightening budgets, easing the fears and drying the tears of their children, and shouldering additional parenting and family responsibility. These people aren’t on the front lines but they are fighting this war each and every day in a very personal way. And they deserve our admiration.

Logemann Community Center and MyHuggy ,LLC (MyHuggy.com) have teamed up to show this selfless group of individuals some appreciation. On Friday, May 30 at 7pm all Wisconsin military families of a deployed soldier (or soon to be deployed) are invited to a special gathering of support. Steve Cotcher from MyHuggy will be gifting all families with one of the best ways to deal with fear – a cuddly bear to hug. But this bear offers so much more !! It’s equipped with a recording device to allow a soldier to share 20 minutes of him/herself for the comfort of the people left behind to hold down the fort. When a young child hears the voice of their deployed parent singing songs, reading a favorite story, sharing loving thoughts, it helps that child stay connected and keeps the distant parent present in that child’s life. When a lonely spouse or lover listens to the soft words of love, special memories, and dreams for the future, it gives him/her strength and hope to endure uncertainty. When a parent or sibling hears the strength, the love, the personality of the deployed soldier missing from their holiday dinners, it fills them with pride and faith. And when the founders of MyHuggy offer these comforting stand-ins to a soldier’s loved ones, absolutely free, it’s an act of patriotic support.

Let everyone you know who is missing a soldier that they need to attend this unique free event. As an added bonus, the popular Country singer, Laura Blevins, will be making a guest appearance to sing her latest hit and tribute to the military. Check out their websites to understand their commitment to our soldiers and then head to Logemann Community Center (6100 W. Mequon Road, Mequon) on Friday, May 30th 7pm
